Campfires and candlelight provide illumination for this magical evening walking tour of Fort Nisqually Living History Museum. Please dress for the weather.

Guests may eavesdrop as more than a hundred re-enactors bring to life the men and women of the Hudson's Bay Company. The people from the past won't be aware of their 21st century visitors.

This year, guests will arrive during October of 1857. They will encounter gentlemen managers and their wives, American settler families, experienced trappers, Scottish and French-Canadian laborers and their families, young people at a dance, blacksmiths working at the forge, clerks in the sale shop, and cooks in the kitchen.

Advance ticket purchase is required.

Tickets go on sale September 1.
Tickets are $12 for adults (age 13 and up)
$8 for youth (age 4-12).
Tours start every 15 minutes.

Many of the Fort's residents will be celebrating the wedding, earlier in the day, of the Fort's clerk Edward Huggins to Letitia Work. Letitia's sister was Jane Work Tolmie, wife of the Fort's boss William Tolmie.

Located in Tacoma's Point Defiance Park, Fort Nisqually Living History Museum is a restoration of the Hudson's Bay Company outpost on Puget Sound. Guests experience life in Washington Territory during the 1850s. Nine buildings are open to the public, including the Granary and the Factors House, both National Historic Landmarks, and a Visitor Center with Museum Store.
