Traveling Light—Jack and Barbara Phillips, former Tacoma newswriters pictured above, will travel with two portable typewriters and very little other luggage when they leave Thursday for a year-long stay in Europe. The two hope to write articles during their visit to the continent. They want to see what an average American is faced with while touring foreign lands and to get an idea of the average European's outlook on current events and trends.—News Tribune staff photo.

Attention Beamed at Spokane Area's New Homes

GROWTH OF HOME OWNERSHIP CONTINUES AS HOUSE BUILDING BOOMS

By NORMAN E. KILGORE

America is on the move—on the move to new and better housing. Eyes of the nation are focused on homes as never before. This year, 1955, builders will erect the 10,000,000th postwar home. And the end is not in sight.

In Spokane and the Inland Empire, dozens of new homes are literally springing out of the ground. Builders are turning more and more to suburban areas in an effort to satisfy the needs of a bustling, growing population.

The nation owes much to the folks in the west, for eight of every 10 homes built in America today are a variation of the one-story rambler or ranch house which originated in the west.

Dollarwise, the urge to own new homes makes impressive reading. Last year, residents of the Pacific Northwest bought and moved into some $150,000,000 worth of new homes. They spent many times that figure for new furnishings, appliances and gadgets to make life in their new homes more enjoyable.

Coupled with the phenomenal rise in home ownership has been the sweeping advances made through research in the design, comfort and attractiveness of homes today. Six of every 10 families in the United States live in their own homes—homes they couldn't have afforded 50 years ago.

Homes aren't the only things that have been improved. Furnishings and appliances today outshine even our grandmother's fondest dreams. Miracle fabrics, new paints, push-button appliances—all contribute much towards making living fuller and richer for every one.

NEW ROAD SYSTEM

COMMISSIONERS AND SUPERVISORS WILL MEET MONDAY TO OUTLINE WORK FOR YEAR.

Is Expected That the New Law Will Bring Better Results Than the Old One Did.

The county commissioners and the new road supervisors of the three districts in Walla Walla county will meet next Monday at the Hall of Records for the plrpose of considering and outlining plans for the year's work. It' is the intention to begin the work of improving roads throughout the county as soon as the weather will permit. Each road supervisor will select his crew of men and the work will be done in a systematic manner. They will begin on one piece of road and continue the work until that particular thoroughfare has been put in first class shape. Under the new system it will be possible for the supervisor and his helpers to go over every county road in the county, and the old way or repairing the highways will be eliminated. In the past it has been the rule of the supervisors to do a major portion of the work on the roads that would be of the most benefit for

CORNERSTONE OF NEW COURTHOUSE WILL BE LAID SOON

Committee in Charge Laying Plans for Big Program Upon This Occasion.

Masonic Grand Lodge Will Have General Charge of Affairs.

With elaborate ceremonies, the corner stone of the new Walla Walla county court house will be laid Monday evening, August 16, at 7 o'clock, with the Masonic grand lodge of the state in charge of affairs. The program for the occasion is being prepared by a committee named by the county commissioners, the membership of which follows: John W. Langdon, chairman; C. M. Rader, Paul H. Weyrauch, W. B. Shaffer and F. M. Lowden Sr.

The program, while not yet completed, contemplates a number of well known speakers, among them Justice S. J. Chadwick of the state supreme court, Judge E. C. Mills of the superior court, W. P. Winans, representing the pioneers and H. A. Reynolds on behalf of the county.

The aperture in the stone will be 12 inches long and 6 inches each way in its other dimensions. A copper box will be fitted in it, and in this box will be deposited: the Holy Bible, a modern coin, statements of the condition of every financial institution in the county, an abstract of the assessment of real and personal property in the county; a sheepskin scroll six feet long, containing the history of the first, second and third county court houses and the first jail; names of all the attorneys who have practiced before the bar in the last five years; names of all the county officials and employees; a program of the corner stone laying; copies of all the newspapers and periodicals printed in the county, and spread over all these will be a silken American flag.

There will be a special stand erected for the exercises, and Main street will be roped off to accommodate the crowds. Special police protection has been promised and the Pacific Power and Light Company will attend to the illumination. The Elks' fife and drum corps will furnish martial music, and it is possible that the regular weekly concert of the Walla Walla band may be transferred to Monday night for this occasion.

The contents of the box that is to be deposited in the corner stone will be displayed in the window of Gardner & Company this week. The scroll is to be done in India ink by W. P. Underwood and the sketches of the former court houses and the new one will be drawn by Osterman & Siebert.
