HOUSE WITHOUT A BASEMENT

Many families prefer all facilities on the first floor. For those families, the architect has prepared an alternate plan, shown at the left, which places a utility room in the area occupied by the basement stairs in the base plan.

COMPACT, EFFICIENT, MODERN...

Every dollar buys value!

This modern small home offers four splendid rooms conveniently arranged for pleasant living. It represents an investment where every dollar buys value.

The exterior is compact, trim and tidy. The extended roof lends character. The trellises which appear to be bracket supports are really decorative elements. The flower box contributes a bright bloom of color. Beautiful, durable red cedar shingles are suggested for siding and roof.

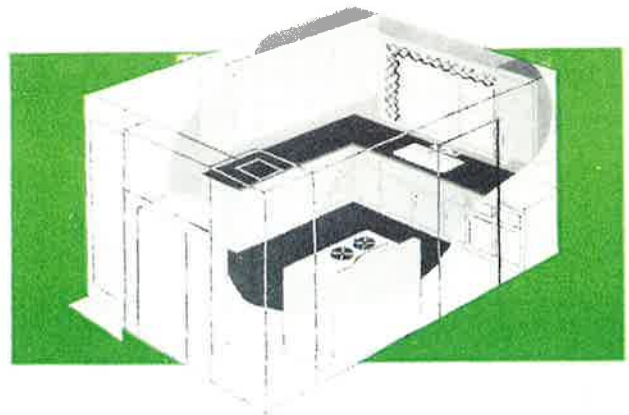

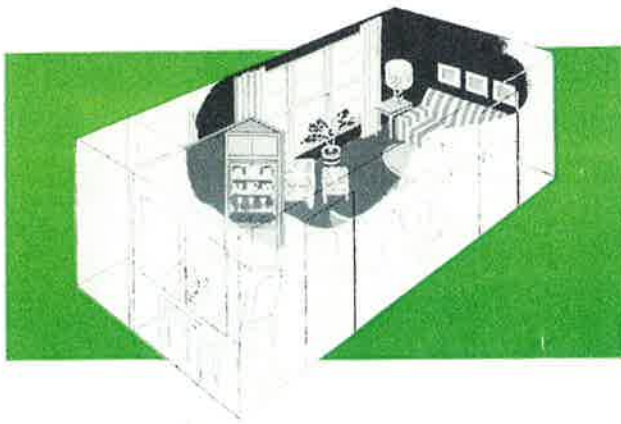

LIVING ROOM—16'-8" x 11'-5": The entry to this attractive room—a really large room for a small home—is equipped with a closet for outer clothing. Good planning provides this "extra" of front entry protection. The wall space of the living room is nicely planned for interesting furniture placements.

DINETTE—6'-0" x 7'-1": The dinette is adroitly set off from the living room by a partial wall with a corner china closet. Here, in front of the cheerful double windows, is a pleasant setting for gracious dining. Joining the living room, the two rooms form a large recreational unit.

KITCHEN—11'-7" x 9'-3": Two windows over the sink provide a good view of the garden. They also admit cheerful natural light for the work center. Built-in wood cabinets, shelves and drawers provide convenient storage. Rear entry leads to kitchen and the basement stair.

BEDROOMS—10'-7" x 11'-5" and 10'-7" x 9'-9": The sleeping quarters and bath are nicely obscured from the living room by a hall. Both bedrooms have generous window space . . . positioned at the corners for beauty, good light, and good ventilation. There are two closets in the master bedroom, and a large wardrobe in the second. The thoughtfully planned linen closet in the hall is handy and large.
